Back to see you lucky people again. Luckiest people I know. Got to read about me. Learn inside dope on all my adventures. Luckier than ever in this issue. "Sahib Herbie" brings you real cloak and dagger stuff, exposes dastardly plot in Red China and India. Always was good on dastardly plots—watch me bust this one up. Conspirators don't stand a chance against me. Very strong. Very smart. Very fat. You'll all be crazy about this story . . . If you value your teeth. And if you take dim view of blood—your own—you'll love me in great yarn entitled "Herbie, Boy Beatie". Only modesty prevents telling how good this one is. Okay. Don't want to talk anymore . . . hate talk. Like writing. Your writing in letter telling how you like my stories. If you're particularly brave and don't mind losing a few teeth, you can even criticize a little, on account I'm fair-minded. Either way, write me—or your next address will be Bureau of Missing Persons. Letter should go to "Herbie", 331 Madison Avenue, New York 17, N. Y. Now stand aside while I read some mail that's come in . . .

"Dear Editor:—

Thank you very much for a marvelous magazine that we, over here in Africa, enjoy so much. I'm really crazy about 'Herbie', or rather (for safety's sake) Mr. Popnecker, Jr. That's why my friends and I are starting a Herb—(uip!)—Mr. Popnecker, Jr. Fan Club. The membership cards being lollipops, of course! Please give my regards to Herbie next time you see him. Good luck from a fan—

—Babs Tuohy, c/o Charles Lwanga, P.O. Chisekesti, N.R., Africa."

Good kid, Babs . . . knows how to respect right people. Fan Club wonderful idea. Never mind using lollipops as membership cards . . . just send them to me.

"Dear Editor:—

Re Herbie Popnecker, Pro & Con. Pro: (1) The greatest author - artist team in comics: Ogden Whitney and Shane O'Shea. The pairing of these two was perhaps the greatest move you've ever made. (2) The hilarious satire contained within Herbie's personality and character is absolutely side-splitting. (3) The presence of real-life people—Presidents Kennedy and Johnson, Adlai Stevenson, Elizabeth Taylor, Richard Burton, Cassius Clay, etc.—in your stories helps to make Herbie's appearance even more hilarious, while at the same time preposterous. (4) His uncanny power of communication with animals and the spirit world, not to mention his powers of levitation, invulnerability to impending disaster, and finally his abnormal obsession for (ugh!) lollipops. Con: (Editor's note . . . this correspondent was about to disclose what he found wrong with Herbie, but suddenly subsided. That noise you hear is an ambulance bell.)

—Vincent M. Mansfield, 40-32 191st St., Flushing 58, N. Y."

Fine jella, Vincent. Used to know him when he was strong, healthy type. Trouble was, tried to talk too much. Should have quit while he was ahead.

"Dear Editor:—

Just a few words on your 'Forbidden Worlds' issue #116. 'Herbie Goes To The Devil'—that boy is indescribably funny and rates high in my favorite characters. The whole issue would have been a disaster if not for Herbie. I almost expected the whole issue was going to be all him—maybe, that's an idea for a new comic book!

—H. M. Siegel, Chelsea, Mass."

Where have you been H.M. Siegel? Don't people in Chelsea, Mass., ever hear what's going on? Got my own comics book—this one. Believe me, you're lucky to be reading it.

"Dear Editor:—

I was very pleased with the first issue of 'Herbie'. The best story in the issue was 'Herbie And The Dragon's Tears'. The ending really got me! And in the second story, I got a swell kick out of Herbie beating Sonny Liston. Now for a question: did you have to get permission from people like President Johnson to depict them in your stories? 'Rocket #1352' was the best one-pager you've put out in a long time. I wish you'd get rid of things like 'The Triumph Of Ethel Rekeenpop' and put in a letter page instead. Finally, there is only one thing wrong with Herbie—Shane O'Shea and Ogden Whitney won't be able to do as much work for your other three magazines, and this will lower the quality of their stories.

—Benny Fontane, 359 Southfield Rd., Shreveport, La."

Why shouldn't you be pleased with the first issue? You better be pleased with every issue if you know what's good for you. This jazz about getting permission to feature famous people in my book—don't you know they beg me to put 'em in? Go down on their knees, because they figure it helps their public image to be seen with me. And now, bub, this business about getting rid of things like "The Triumph of Eibreh Reckenpop". Don't you know that Eibreh Reckenpop spelled backwards is Herbie Popnecker? And nobody gets rid of me, even backward! I may just dop you with this here lollipop—haven't made up my mind yet. Anyway, you wanted a letter department and so help me, you got one!

"Dear Editor:—

I don't care what anyone says, I'm for all of your stories being about Herbie! Why, even my little brother is as crazy about Herbie as I am. He keeps after my grandmother for his 'Fat Boy' comics book. I think that 'Herbie Goes To The Devil' was the greatest story I ever read. Anyone who doesn't like Herbie deserves a punch in the face. Pardon the shaky writing, but I wrote this letter on a copy of 'Forbidden Worlds' and Herbie peeked out and jiggled my elbow!

—Phillip Jones, 1512 S.W. 65th,
Oklahoma City, Okla."

Now, here's a real good Joe—this Phillip Jones character. Heart in the right place. Knows a great story when he reads one. Could be friends with a fella like that if he were fat. Keep on reading "Forbidden Worlds", Phillip—but now that I've moved to my own magazine, be sure you don't miss a copy of "Herbie"!

"Dear Herbie:—

I just finished reading the second sensational issue of 'Herbie'. I meant to have written you much sooner to congratulate you on the best character ACG has ever published! Whatever you do, don't make the mistake of changing Herbie. Keep his stories just as they've been, and you'll always have a seller on your hands. My compliments to everyone who has a part in the publication of Herbie's hilarious adventures!

—Richard "Grass" Green,
1311 Hayden St., Fort Wayne, Ind."

Got hopes for you, Richard. You'll amount to something someday. Keep on reading my magazine, go on heavy lollipop diet and you'll make it for sure. Uh—you might send me some of those lollipops occasionally. . . .

"Dear Editor:—

I just got No. 116 of 'Forbidden Worlds' and (you'll never guess) Herbie is (oh, this is really too much) on page four, panel 5, without his lollipop! Exactly what is the meaning of this outrage? (Meanwhile, back at the old homestead, I'm still a loyal fan!)

—Virginia Kaufman, 177 So. Grant St.,
Wilkes-Barre, Pa."

Wasn't really without my lollipop, Virginia. At the moment, whole thing happened to be in my mouth, stick and all. Get enthusiastic that way sometimes. You're a cute kid—you I like. Want things to stay that way, latch onto this magazine and keep reading it.

"Dear Editor:—

I know your letter departments are jam-packed with letters about that 'Fat Little Nothing', Herbie. So I'll try to talk about something else. Your recent story, 'Last Of His Kind' in 'Forbidden Worlds' was very good and Pete Costanza's artwork was terrific. And your recent 'Herbie' story was... oops! I guess I just can't stop talking about him. I must have a bad case of 'Herbieitis'!

—Douglas Humphrey, 3220 N.W. 66th St.,
Oklahoma City 16, Okla."

Why try to talk about anything else than Herbie, Doug? Crazy about that boy . . . can't seem to get enough of him. Read his adventures every chance I get . . . keep looking forward to next issue. Signed . . . Herbie Popnecker. . . .

"Dear Editor:—

'Herbie' is about the best comic ever. I've just bought and read the second issue. 'Herbie And The Purlotted Pops' was terrific, but 'Kitchy Witch' was very bad. 'What You Need Is A Girl, Herbie' was okay.

—Rod Curran, 832 So. Grant Avenue, Crawfordsville, Ind."

Agree with your first sentence, Rod. Agree with your opinion of 'Purlotted Pops'. Don't even get mad about 'Kitchy Witch'—always did think witches were on the jerky side. But that jazz about "What You Need Is A Girl, Herbie" being okay—not buying that! "Okay" lousy word . . . suggest "colossal", "sensational" or "magnificent". Give you one last chance to use one of these instead of "okay". Act fast or I'll be on my way out to Crawfordsville, complete with bopping lollipop.
